A MENITION OF BARBAROES WAR-

Lieut, FITZGERALD, company D, Col. Rust's 3d Arkansas regiment, who has just returned from Gen. Jackson's division in Northeastern Virginia, exhibited to us on yesterday a singular contrivance of Yankee ingenuity, used as a bullet by the Federal troops in the late fight near Bath. It has the form of an ordinary conical ball In the large end is a small excavation containing a brass cup filled with powder, and having a the gun or pistol fires, the punk, being very times in that direction. combustible, is immediately ignited and explodes the powder within less than a second of time. With such a diabolical conception as is this, of course but few victims who are struck can escape ultimate death. Lieut. FITZGERALD found a large number of these curious balls in the Federal winter quarters after the enemy had taken refuge in flight across the Potemac. He states that our soldiers heard them bursting about their beads continually during the fight on the day previous, and were discovery. The fact that so savage and barbarous an expedient, better worthy of the Sepoy and the Thug, has been resorted to by "the civilfasel a d Christian North" is an authentic cirinto she future history of this war.
